LIFE IN SPAIN.

"It is actual living truth; the thing seen rendered in natural colors, bright and brilliant; the theme played translated through all its variations rich and clear. We have seldom met with more vivid word-painting."—[London Atheneum.]

LIFE IN SPAIN:
PAST AND PRESENT.

BY WALTER THORNBURY.

Illustrations, 12mo., Music, $1.

"Photographic and very lively." "Gay, with a effective drawing and bright color."—[London Atheneum.]

"A good book—a noteworthy book—a rare book. Jotted down, as the author says, 'on cigarette paper, with ink made of cigarette smoke and Spanish licorice.' It has all the flame and dry acidic flavor, all the color, the warmth, the passion, and the burning soul of modern Spain; it is no dull effort of imagination, where the tones are out of drawing and the palette too gross or too faded—it is no monotonous air swayed on a single string—but it is actual living truth; the thing seen rendered in natural colors, bright and brilliant; the theme played translated through all its variations rich and clear. We have seldom met with more vivid word-painting. The dry, hot, burning air, with its floods of blinding sunshine resting on the dusty leaves and the glaring houses; the keen brown Spanish, with his keen eye and grave courtesy, his ready smile and unwinking scrutiny; the boyish drawn by the last thirsty wretch who went pausing by; the lascivious matrons, hanging like globes of translucent glass in the extended network of salons; the city streets, with only the fierce sun walking over them; see, feel, know, are conscious of all, so vividly does the traveler bring his experiences before us."

"Mr. Thornbury is an artist born, perhaps bred; and has the keen perception and lucidness enjoying eyes of an artist to perfection."—[Atheneum.]

BEULAH!

The remarkable success of this now much read, and much talked of Novel, is best indicated by the fact, that fifteen editions have been sold by us. We are now printing the Sixteenth Edition, making

16,000 COPIES

In four months from publication.

From Marion Harland, author of "Alice," "Hidden Path," &c.

"I present to you my congratulations when I pronounced Beulah's
the best work of action ever published by a Southern writer.

"To my mind, no American authoress has produced a greater book. There is a wealth of thought, a depth of knowledge, and a sense of mind and character unequalled. It would be an extraordinary work from the hand of any woman, but it is peculiarly so from one so young. The reading of it cannot but do great good."

From the Rev. H. Milburn (the Blind Preacher Eloquent).
"I have no hesitation in saying that few books have ever interested me so much. They are full of interest, and the language is simple and forcible. It would be an extraordinary work from the hand of any woman, but it is peculiarly so from one so young. The reading of it cannot but do great
good."

From Fred. S. Coxson, author of the "Sparrowgrass Papers."
"I have been greatly interested by this story of the Mobile heroine, and I am convinced that it will be a success. It is written in a style that is simple and forcible. It is a story of mind and character. The character-painting is fine, the description of passing events and scenery graphic and striking, but to me the chief charm of the book lies in the frank triumph of a doubtless, the confident, the bold, and the frank triumph of a good cause for truth. If the public can appreciate a thoroughly good work, they will thank you for having given them 'Beulah'."
